Candidates in Dead Aim at Prayer Ruling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Political candidates swung their sights from one another Monday and took dead aim at the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling that official prayers in public schools are a violation of the constitution.

Rep. Dale Alford and Kenneth Coffelt, candidates for governor, critically denounced the decision. "In my opinion," Coffelt said, "it marks the blackest page in the history of the American judiciary."

Alford compared the decision to that in the 1954 case of Brown vs. the Board of Education of Topeka, Kan., in which the high tribunal handed down its now historic ruling on desegregation of public schools.

"Then and now," Alford said, "the Supreme Court has torn the constitution to shreds while pretending to uphold it."

Winston Chandler of Little Rock, a candidate for the Senate seat now held by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the decision was one of a "Godless, left-wing, socialist body."

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that it is a violation of the constitution for New York State to authorize the saying of a 22-word prayer. Words of the prayer are: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

"As a member of the American bar for 33 years," Coffelt said, "I am shocked to read of the decision. That decision ought to turn everyone in the country sick. The justices who wrote it ought to be impeached."

Coffelt said if he is elected governor he will work with governors of other states to get an amendment to the constitution allowing prayers in public schools.

Alford said the decision, "Violates the principles of freedom of religion handed down to us by the founding fathers."

"When I am elected governor," Alford said, "I defy any public official to try to prevent us from having prayer in the public schools or in any other public place in Arkansas. Freedom of religion will be preserved in this sovereign state."

At the same time, Coffelt got off a little verbal shot at Alford, charging that the congressman had failed in his campaign promises by not having the Supreme Court impeached. Coffelt said Alford was elected on the promise that he would impeach the high tribunal.

Chandler termed the ruling the most absurd thing he has ever heard of. "In my opinion, the Supreme Court is a left-wing group preparing the way for one-world."

Court Criticized for School Prayer Ruling

Bible Readings to Continue

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Education Commissioner Arch Ford said today Monday's Supreme Court decision on school prayers apparently won't affect a 1950 Arkansas law requiring daily Bible readings in public schools.

"The Supreme Court ruled specifically on prayers," Ford said. "I assume that Bible readings would be all right until they are challenged in court."

The 1950 law makes daily prayers optional. But it requires that teachers read from scriptures with or without comment.

Ford said he was sure there are some schools where scriptures are not read, despite the law.

Ford said he was not surprised by the Supreme Court decision, which said New York schools could not require prayers. "I don't think anyone should be surprised by any decision of the Supreme Court," Ford said.

Committee Slated to Quizz Rostov

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Foreign Relations committee members should find Walt Whitman Rostow a man of many ideas even if they don't learn just what is in his master strategy document.

Rostow, scheduled for a committee quizzing behind closed doors late today, is a sort of professional idea man. That is much of his job now as State Department counselor and chairman of the department's policy planning staff.

The mild-mannered 45-year-old former professor, economist, historian, author and intelligence officer seems not in the least gunshy about talking to the senators about his personal views.

Whether Rostow and the secret document linked with his name are soft on communism has popped up as something of an issue this congressional year. Critics hint this allegation while defenders deny it. Partly on trial, at least, is the foreign policy of the Kennedy administration.

Rostow, an adviser to President Kennedy during the 1960 campaign, came to Washington last year from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to become a deputy special assistant at the White House for national security affairs. Last December he switched to the State Department post which carries the rank of assistant secretary.

His State Department duties have included compiling a document which, department officials say, gathers together various Washington ideas on foreign and defense policy including some which have not been put into effect and many which have been publicly espoused by administration authorities.

The thick volume is now at the White House for review. Then it is supposed to go into the National Security Council archives. The administration has shown no intent ever to make it public.

The Senate hearing was sought by Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois against a background of charges by some Republicans that the administration has a "no-win" foreign policy.

Conway Man Dies in Accident

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Aubrey Ragland, 49, of Conway died in a three-car collision on U.S. Highway 65 eight miles north of Little Rock Monday.

Five persons were injured in the crash.

State police said Mrs. Dexter Cochran, 63, of Russellville was hospitalized but believed not seriously injured.

Police said a car driven by Ragland crashed into a truck driven by Samuel A. Blanks, 23, of North Little Rock when the truck skidded across the center line of the highway. A car driven by Nancy Cochran, 19, of Russellville struck the rear-end of the Ragland car, police said.

Mrs. Cochran was a passenger in the car driven by Miss Cochran, police said.

Commission Can Order Recount

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An elections commission can order a vote recount in a bond election, but it cannot void illegal ballots, the attorney general's office ruled Monday.

The opinion went to Mayor Roy Walker of Eureka Springs, where voters recently approved a bond issue for a city water system by a narrow margin.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Dennis Horton told Walker the commission had discretion to order a recount. If some voters want a recount and the commission refuses to act, the matter can be taken to court, Horton wrote.

The specific ruling of the court was that the Constitution's ban against establishment of religion is violated by this prayer authorized by New York State for its public schools:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers, and our country."

The 6-1 decision said further that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers or any group of American people to recite as part of a religious program carried on by government."

First to act in Congress was Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C., who lists evangelist Billy Graham among his constituents.

He put in his bill shortly after Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., had announced plans to offer one along the same line in the Senate.

Almost simultaneously Rep. Frank Chel, D-Ky., said he was sounding out House Judiciary Committee members on such a bill. Chel, criticizing other recent court rulings, said that if he cannot get legislation to that end he will favor a law limiting Supreme Court justices to a specific term of years instead of the present lifetime appointments.

Rep. Thomas F. Johnson, D-Md., said he too is drafting a proposed constitutional amendment to permit "noncompulsory prayers in public schools and other places."

All the sponsors of legislative proposals expressed fear of an extension of the legal theory back of the court's ruling.

Johnson's statement said he fears it will lead to efforts to "delete from our pledge of allegiance the portion which says 'one nation under God' and will lead to a marked deterioration of spiritual emphasis in the nited States."

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., had taken a similar line Monday with a comment that "the next thing you know they'll be telling us we can't open our daily House sessions with prayer."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., was asked if he expected any effects on the daily prayer, and he snorted in response: "Of course not!"

The first bill introduced, authored by Taylor, reads: "Notwithstanding the First or 14th Article of Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, prayers may be offered and the Bible may be read in connection with the program of any public school in the United States."

The first Amendment is the one cited by the high court, providing that Congress "shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Holt said his office joined with the Nevada attorney general's office last March 24 in filing an amicus curiae brief in the case.

The brief took the position that the prayers were legal, Holt said. "We think the (Monday) ruling is very shortsighted and the rationale of the court is weak," Holt said today. "We would be glad to join in a petition for rehearing."

Holt said the March 24 brief asked the court what would be the status of the pledge of allegiance to the flag, which invokes God's name: public prayers in the legislature, oaths in court and mottoes on our coins if the prayers are outlawed.

State police said Mrs. Dexter Cochran, 63, of Russellville was hospitalized but believed not seriously injured.

Police said a car driven by Ragland crashed into a truck driven by Samuel A. Blanks, 23, of North Little Rock when the truck skidded across the center line of the highway. A car driven by Nancy Cochran, 19, of Russellville struck the rear-end of the Ragland car, police said.

Living Cost Remains at Record Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs were unchanged in May at the record level set in April.

Lower prices for food and gasoline balanced out higher housing and medical care costs to leave the government index at 105.2 percent of the 1957-59 base period.

This means it costs about a nickel more now to buy the same goods that could be obtained for a dollar in the prior period.

Robert J. Myers, deputy Labor Department statistics commissioner, in announcing the figures today said the steadiness in May was "welcome little respite" after living-cost increases in February, March and April.

Myers predicted, however, a small living cost increase will be shown for June when those figures become available a month from now.

While living costs remained steady in May, the after-tax earnings of factory production workers hit a new record. Both the average weekly work hours and hourly earnings increased.

The average factory worker heading a family of four earned $86.05 weekly after deduction of federal income and Social Security taxes in May. This topped the prior high to $85.70 set in December.

U.S. Requests Data From Steel Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has demanded expense account and other information from steel company executives in continuing a probe into April's on-and-off steel price raise.

Informed sources said Monday subpoenas for information from some executives went out about three weeks ago in connection with department efforts to determine whether the price boost involved collusion.

The U.S. Steel Corp. said in New York that the government had subpoenaed telephone numbers and expense account information of some executives.

The Dow Jones business news service reported from Pittsburgh that similar records were subpoenaed from Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Wheeling Steel Corp. and that Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. was understood to have been served.

A grand jury investigation into steel prices was ordered April 12 by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy after seven companies announced $6-a-ton price increases. The inquiry continued after the hike was rescinded in the face of administration protests.

A Justice Department source said the subpoenas were part of the continuing inquiry and do not represent any new investigation. Kennedy declined comment.

The search into expense account information reportedly extends back to June 1961.

Teachers Tire of Working Conditions

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Public school teachers are becoming increasingly impatient with what they call intolerable working conditions and in some circumstances, may feel forced to go on strike, an official of the National Education Association said today.

"Teacher strikes are deplorable, but so are the conditions that cause them," said T. M. Stinnett, assistant executive secretary of education.

Stinnett said in an interview he does not approve of teacher strikes, but added: "In all probability we will continue to see such strikes in the years ahead because they are the last recourse to dramatize bad situations and move the public to action."

The strike in New York City last spring, he said, was the result of the total disillusionment of the city's teachers.

"It was an accumulation of intolerable conditions," Stinnett said, "including politics, bureaucracy, obsolete and outmoded buildings and rotten equipment."

Stinnett is attending the annual conference of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, opening here tonight. He headed the commission for 10 years, until last August.

"If I read the signs correctly," he said, "teachers are going to be much more aggressive, much more militant in demanding better conditions of work so they can provide the services to children that the American public has a right to expect, and so they can do the professional job they have been trained to do."

"This doesn't mean that power tactics are inevitable. We need not have strikes, nor threats of strikes. Our problems can be solved by mutual recognition of the facts. We can work these things out through negotiations."

State Policeman Kills a Man

MORRILLTON, Ark. (AP) — Jack Steven Kindrick, 30, was fatally shot Monday night and Conway County Prosecutor George Hartje said State Trooper Bill Vogle fired the shot.

Kindrick died in a Morrillton hospital. The shooting took place at the home of Kindrick's father, Earl Kindrick, near Blackwell.

Hartje said Vogle was called to the house by the younger Kindrick's wife, Mary, to quell a disturbance.

The prosecutor quoted Vogle as saying that when he arrived the younger Kindrick went into a barn and came out with a knife and an ice pick.

Hartje said Vogle said he fired once at Kindrick's feet and then shot him when he did not stop.

Leaders Going on With Stalled Medicine Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders reported today they are going through with plans to start action in the Senate chamber on the Kennedy administration medical care program now stalled in a House committee.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the ranking Senate Democrat, told newsmen after he and other party leaders in Congress had breakfast with President Kennedy that the move will be made the end of this week.

Mansfield said there probably would be additions to the administration measure, along the line of bringing in the Blue Cross as an administering body and providing coverage for elderly persons not on the Social Security rolls.

The administration bill would finance medical care for men and women over 65 through the Social Security taxes.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, Senate sponsor of the legislation, said last week he would try to attach it as an amendment to some other bill pending in the Senate. He also suggested the possibility of letting the Blue Cross system handle the care of several million persons who never got into the Social Security system.

The leadership report bore out speculation that the administration would make changes in its program in an effort to attract support from wavering Congress members and would concentrate on the Senate as a springboard for putting the bill in motion.

House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said the strategy does not mean the leadership has given up on the possibility of getting action in the House Ways and Means Committee, where the bill is snagged in controversy. He said the House can take concurrent action.

Public Kept Buying Stock During Slump

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public kept buying and stock exchange specialists sold more heavily than usual during the January-June period of the sharp market slump.

This is the major finding in an Associated Press study of trading statistics compiled by the New York Stock Exchange.

Through June 1 exchange members had sold 91.9 million shares and bought 85.3 million—a net reduction of 6.6 million shares. At the same time, public investors were buying 356.2 million shares and selling 349.1 million—adding 7.1 million shares to their portfolios.

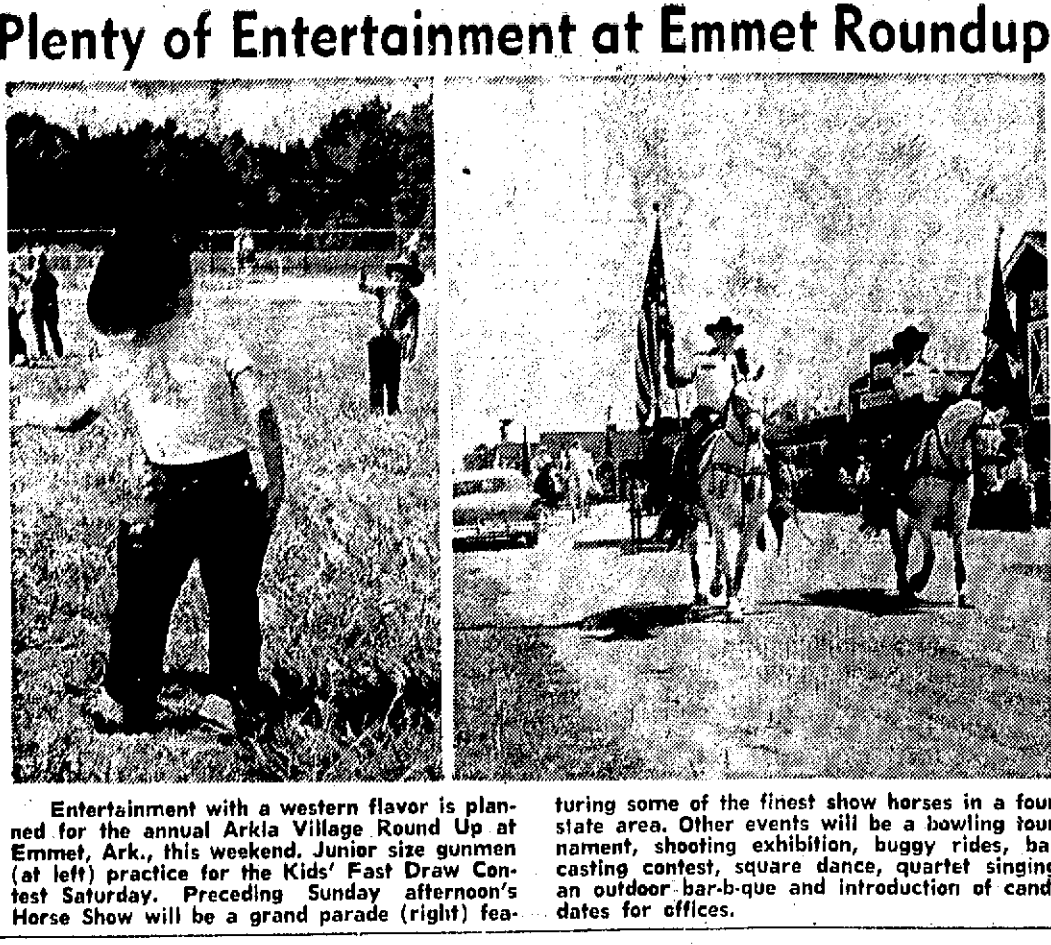

The principal question raised by the study: Did the specialists' dealings tend to depress prices? The figures would seem to indicate they might have. The exchange officials questioned their significance.

Said G. Keith Funston, president of the exchange: "In the face of the highest volume in more than three decades, exchange specialists exceeded their recent performance records for stabilizing transactions and maintaining price continuity."

Normally, exchange members sell more shares than they buy because of the disposition of stock acquired through splits, the conversion of debentures and similar developments.

One function of specialists is to sell stocks when sellers are scarce and to buy when there are few buyers. They also try to prevent sharp price fluctuations between successive transactions in the stocks they handle.

Funston reported that in the three-day trading period that began May 28—Black Monday—92 per cent of all transactions by specialists in 50 key stocks "were stabilizing in nature—that is, specialists bought when others wanted to sell, and supplied stock

Pop Blows His Top As Phone Bill Hits New High

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: A terrible thing has happened in our family. It all started one evening not long ago. Dad and Mom both work. They're worried a lot lately over the stock market. When they came home that night looking more tired than usual, Dad settled down in his easy chair to look over the mail. Sensing what was coming, I hurried into the kitchen and called my brother to help with the dinner, for I hate rows. But the dope—mind you I love him but he is a dope—even though 22-years old, was long-dismissing his opinion.

Well, Dad opened the last letter on the pile, the telephone bill, and blew his top. "Who's been making all these long distance phone calls?" he shouted, plunging into the hall. The question answered itself for there sat Brother still sweet-talking his girl. Dad told him off something terrible, grabbed his hat and marched out, banging the front door behind him, dinner forgotten. Brother slammed down the phone, ran upstairs, packed his bag and stalked off with the words, "I'm sorry I ever walked into Dad's life. Good-bye."

Mom and I sat there numb. Brother joined the Army and leaves this month for the Far East to train there.

Mom and I tried to talk to Dad and Brother to get them to make peace. But they won't listen to us. We're just about given up and it's breaking our hearts—suppose something happened and Brother never came back? So I turn to you for advice. My brother says he will pay for those phone bills but Dad doesn't believe us when we tell him. —A Fan Who Needs Advice

Dear Fan: Hard though it seems, your brother is going to the right place at the right time. He'll learn something and come home a man. Don't be too hard on your Dad. The stock market is enough to drive any investor crazy these days. Let him and Brother work out their problem without interference.

What happened is unfortunate but not fatal. Seen in the proper perspective it can be a lesson to both. The best way for you and your mother to ease the situation is to talk about Brother as if nothing occurred to disturb the serenity of family relationship. Unpleasant though the quarrel may have been, it put Brother on his own, which is important for his development. At 22, he should have paid his way long since.

Dear Helen: My husband was working a distance from home and went into a restaurant for dinner. There he met a woman. That was two months ago. He wanted a divorce. I begged him to stay with me and our year-old boy but he said, "No." His mother found the woman's phone number and called her. This week he walked in saying he was staying

Practice for West Open Has Begun

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Golf's big dealers began practice today for the Western Open over the timbered acreage of the Medinah No. 3 course and none was expected to do much bragging about his scores.

Those who faced the expanse of traps and broad greens at Oakmont in the National Open now are bucking a wandering 7,110 yards out through enough forest land to make a lumberjack drool. Pan 3-35-76 on the rugged layout isn't going to take much of a beating, and many a player would settle for something like 281 to take the championship when the 72-hole meet ends Sunday.

The last big tournament on the so-called "monster course" was the 1949 National Open won by Cary Middlecott with 28 on rounds of 75-67-69-75. The 67 still remains the course record.

Although Jack Nicklaus and the man he defeated in a playoff for the National Open June 17, Arnold Palmer, share the favorite's role, some of the lesser power-hitters may find the course more to their liking.

"Maneuverability off the tees is required more than distance," says Medinah pro Jack Bell. "And the most important shots will be from the tees. I don't see this tournament as a putting contest."

The 59th Western Open will start Thursday with a field of 136 players. Nicklaus and Palmer will be in competition against each other for the first time since the National Open.

U.S., British Leaders Talk Over Policies

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk met with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home today to align British-American policies on the most urgent problems of Europe, Asia and Africa.

As the two statesmen began their conference the three big Western powers sent new notes to the Soviet Union urging early East-West talks in Berlin to ease tensions along the wall through the divided city.

American, British and French notes were sent to Moscow for delivery, probably by Tuesday. They proposed that the Big Four commandants meet in an attempt to curb shooting incidents along the wall that divides the Communist and Western sectors of the city.

The Western notes replied to a warning earlier this month from Moscow. The Soviets blamed a series of shootings across the Communist-built wall on what they called German Fascist elements backed by the Allies.

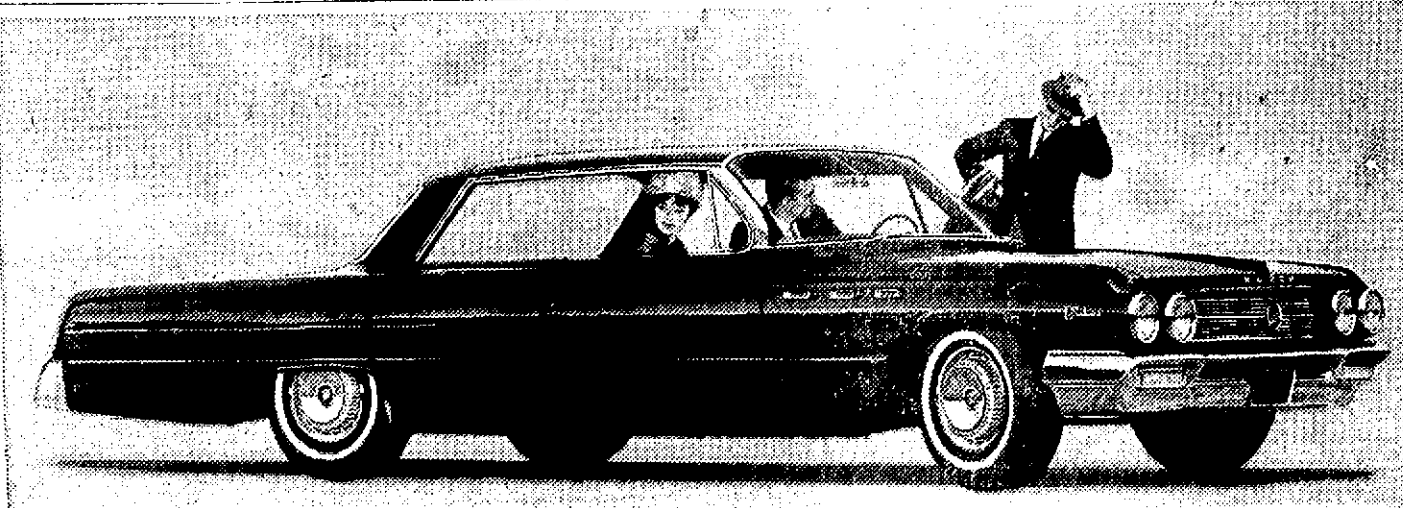

The Soviets demanded Western action to halt these incidents, which were termed provocative, or else face the possibility that the U. S. S. R. would come to the aid of the East German Communist ally.

Rusk brought with him new and stiffened American proposals for a Berlin settlement.

government," he said. Other gubernatorial candidates were silent on the issue.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus was in North Arkansas conferring with supporters, former governor Sid McMath was preparing a speech for delivery on television Saturday, and Vernon Whitten was campaigning in North Arkansas.

Whitten said Monday that Arkansas is at the crossroads of constitutional government. He said if the people of Arkansas want a new political climate, they will have to put a new man in the governor's office. Whitten told an audience at Batesville there is no middle ground. He again charged that Faubus is dominated by special interest groups.

Candidate David Cox of Weiner was scheduled to address a Little Rock civic club today.

Campaign signs went up Monday at Faubus' headquarters in Little Rock. The governor plans to formally open his campaign Thursday night on a statewide radio-television broadcast from El Dorado.

Whitten had stops scheduled today at Flippin, Yellville, Fayette, Harrison, Green Forest, Berryville and Eureka Springs. He was scheduled to make a television appearance over station KFSA-TV at Fort Smith.

McMath was scheduled to attend the meeting of the Ashley-Chicot Electric Cooperative membership meeting at Portland today.

Coffelt said he would spend today in his office in Little Rock organizing county support throughout the state. He said he would release a 44-stop itinerary today for later this week.

CORNERS, ANYBODY?
By STEVE APRIL

About five of us were sitting around the gymnasium, talking to the old timer when one of us asked him to tell about the most interesting bout he ever saw.

"Well now, that's a kind of tough question to answer, considering I managed a lot of good pugns in my time," the old-timer said slowly. "But I suppose the fighter that gave me my biggest kick wasn't my light weight champ, or even a pro. He was an amateur. Yeah, a little chunky welterweight. Can't even recall his name now: Johnny Something. This must have been back in 1934, around then. This Johnny was muscular colored boy, not very good but he had a wild right that packed power. As a matter of fact, seems to me that after a few bouts the kid had the good sense to quit the ring.

"In the second round it was comical. Neither of them is fighting much. They're both too busy watching the clock. When the round has maybe 15 seconds to go, they start wrestling in the center of the ring like little bulls, each trying to push the other towards his own corner. As I said, it was funny, and the fans laughed at them dancing and wrestling. When the bell rang the tall kid was nearest his corner and my Johnny was sore. Between rounds I told him, 'Forget this corner bunk. You been doing miles of roadwork every morning. A little walk across the ring ain't going to kill you. You had a couple of openings, could have clipped him if you wasn't so busy worrying about ending up in this corner. This is the last round, go out and fight!'

"I got a plan," Johnny says. "I got me a good plan. 'Now of course you can't expect too much from amateurs, they're just learning, you understand. In the third and last round the rangy kid is jabbing Johnny silly but my kid just covers up, keeps an eye on the clock. Well sir, when there's still a whole minute to go, Johnny suddenly grabs the other kid and starts bullying him toward me. The tall boy thinks the round must be about over and starts walking Johnny to the opposite corner. 'As I told you, Johnny was short and powerful, the stronger of the two, but he lets the other kid walk him across the ring. When he's almost in the tall boy's corner, Johnny lunges backward instead of pushing toward me and our corner. The tall kid is so surprised at this sudden move, he's completely off balance for a second. Once Johnny gets clear of those arms he hangs the kid with a hard right hook. The rangy boy falls flat on his face, out cold."

"Johnny runs to a neutral corner while the ref is counting, actually walks over at me. A few seconds after the ref reaches the bell rings.

"Johnny goes over to where the other kid's seconds are trying to pull him to his feet, get him on his stool. I was in the ring with Johnny's robe and so help me, I heard him tell the tall boy's seconds, 'Tell him—when he comes to—that he ended up in his own corner at the end of the third round too!'

Pole Track Stars Coming to U.S.

WARSAW (AP) — Poland's top track and field stars fly to the United States tonight with a vow to give the Americans the toughest competition they'll find anywhere in the world.

"We are second only to the Americans and I am sure that today we could beat the Russians," Coach Zdzislaw Zabierowski said on the eve of his team's departure for the U.S.-Poland track meet this weekend in Chicago.

The Poles are due to arrive in Chicago on Wednesday morning as honored guests of Polish-American week. Aboard their chartered plane will be 39 men and 19 women athletes, 7 coaches, a physician, masseur, 8 officials, 2 sportswriters and a sportscaster.

It's a return visit for the 1981 Warsaw appearance of the U.S. track team which beat the Poles by 30 points.

Watershed Loan
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Farmers Home Administration announced Monday it has approved a $380,000 loan to the Grady-Gould Watershed Improvement District in Jefferson, Lincoln and Desha counties. The money will be used to help finance construction of 19 grade stabilization structures and 88 miles of channel improvements. Total cost of the project is estimated at $1.8 million, of which the federal government is to pay $658,194, the agency said.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for all the kindness and sympathy shown and the food and flowers given during the loss of our loved one.

Especially do we thank Dr. Patton, Dr. McKenzie and the nurses at Branch General Hospital.
